

THE CENTRAL RECORD

THIRTEENTH YEAR.

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1902.

NUMBER 14

Items of Local Interest.

The cigarette law is working a hardship on the boys.

The banks and post office will be closed tomorrow.

The Lancaster orchestra will get together again in a few days and resume weekly practice.

Rev. Mr. J. L. McClung will preach at West Point next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

The Sunday dinners and suppers at the Garrard continue to attract large numbers of our people. They are elegant.

Jim Dawson, the negro who murdered his wife at Stanford recently, has been found guilty and sentenced to be hung. Good.

If you want to vote for Lancaster's entry in the Queen of Carnival Contest, see Louis Landram or Braman Hensley, who have an abundance of tickets.

We are indebted to that clever young gentleman, Mr. Jno. M. Farra, for the photos from which the cuts in this issue are made. Mr. Fox, the photographer, finished them up.

The coon excursion to Louisville Sunday morning was well patronized. If the railroad company would forget to bring back a lot of these "excursionists," it would do a great favor to the town.

Final Reading.

F. The City Council met Monday morning and gave the new laws a final reading. They are now ready for the printer, and will probably be published in next issue of THE RECORD. The laws are well drawn, and if rigidly enforced will put a stop to all kind of devils.

"Happy Jack" Dead.

The announcement of the sudden death of Jno. H. Miller, of Lincoln county, will cause deep regret among the many friends of that genial and big-hearted gentleman here in Garrard. He was one of the most widely-known men in the state, and his good nature, and happy conversation made friends of all with whom he came in contact. He was a frequent writer for the local papers, our readers having been often favored with his bright and witty productions. His death was caused by heart trouble, and was very sudden. Only last court day, he was in our office, and had all laughing at his happy and witty remarks. What a pity there are not more men like him, who bring sunshine instead of a snarl.

Don't miss the base ball Friday (tomorrow).

Some Weather.

For the past ten days, the weather has been a mixture of wind, rain and heat, so parceled out as to make it about as uncomfortable as possible. Lightning has been doing its share of cranky business, too. Farmers are greatly behind with wheat cutting, much of the grain having been blown down. Rain has fallen most every day.

Gov. Bradley in Town.

Gov. Bradley came up from Louisville and spent a day or so with his family in this city. He never misses an opportunity to praise his old home town, and tells everybody it is the best town in the world. The governor is kept pretty busy with his large law practice in Louisville, and don't get away from the city often more than every two weeks.

A Splendid Officer.

The many friends of Commonwealth's Attorney, Jno. Sam Owsley, are delighted to know that he will enter the race for re-election, and thus afford them the opportunity of expressing at the polls their hearty appreciation of his faithful services. It would be impossible to select one who will work harder for the state's interests or strive more diligently to bring evil-doers into the clutches of the law. Mr. Owsley is a splendid lawyer, and one of the cleverest gentlemen it is our good fortune to know. We don't believe anyone can beat him.

To the Democrats of the 13th Judicial District.

I desire to announce myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of this district. In the past I have endeavored to faithfully discharge my duties as your servant and, in your judgment, I am deserving of re-election. I shall greatly appreciate an endorsement at your hands, promising you that should I be so fortunate as to be elected that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office. Yours respectfully, J. S. Owsley, Jr.

OPEN FRIDAY, the 4th

Take a day off and visit the

FOX STUDIO,

North Side Public Square.

Mother Hubbard base ball tomorrow.

The recent rains have washed the pikes badly, and it will take much work to put them in shape.

Don't forget Bro. Moore's temperance lecture at Gunn's Chapel tomorrow, the 4th.

Editors Scrap.

Editors W. P. Walton and Desha Breckinridge pulled wool and scratched in Lexington. The trouble grew out of a newspaper controversy, as all such matters invariably end. We understand the differences have been patched up, and sincerely hope they have, as both are honorable, high-toned gentlemen.

Some Tally.

Lexington Democrat:—The CENTRAL RECORD of Lancaster has a new head but Louis Landram's fine old head is still doing business for it at the old stand and making it one of the best papers that ever left a printing press.

Stanford Journal:—The CENTRAL RECORD's new head is an improvement. It would be hard to improve on the paper any other way, however.

A Fine Showing.

The Peoples Bank, of Paint Lick, publishes its quarterly statement in this issue of THE RECORD. A perusal will show the rapid progress made by the institution. Mr. Kemper, the gentlemanly cashier, is a sociable, industrious business man, and the directors are to be congratulated upon securing him. He believes in patronizing home institutions, too, giving this office all the bank's printing.

New Firm.

Owing to my health failing me I have sold out my stock of goods to Theo. Curry, Jr., and R. L. Davidson, who, will continue the business at the old stand. I want to thank all of my old friends who have so liberally patronized me in the past, and ask a continuance of the same liberal share of their patronage for the new firm. July 1st, 1902. Respectfully, Theo. Curry, Sen.

Base Ball.

A team, selected from the Richmond Elks lodge, will come down on Friday's morning train and play a game with the local team on Dr. Herring's lot, play called at 3 o'clock. An admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged. Both teams will wear fancy "mother Hubbard" dresses, and much fun is promised. Gov. McCrory and Gov. Bradley are billed as umpires, and both teams will be made up of well-known people.

Mad Dog.

A mad dog passed through town Tuesday night. He bit Frank Lackey, the colored grocer, and a colored woman. He snapped at several other parties, and many windy tales have been told of narrow escapes. He snapped at Mr. Louis Gill, making some scratches on his arm, and Mr. Gill fearing serious results, has gone to Chicago to take the Pastuer treatment. The dog passed on into the country and could not be killed. The colored people mentioned have gone to Gilberts Creek to have a mad stone applied.

Madison Institute.

Read the advertisement of Madison Institute in another column. This school has for years been one of the leading female colleges of Kentucky and now under the efficient management of Prof. J. W. McGarvey, Jr., it has taken on new life and forged ahead of all the rest. This is because the president thinks that nothing but the best in school matters is worth having; the best of teachers and the best of everything, and the parents who send their daughters to Madison Institute will get far more than value received in the superior advantages to be obtained there. There are many in this community who ought to send their daughters to the institution. Under such instructors their progress would necessarily be more thorough and more satisfactory in every way.

"Richmond vs. Lancaster."

The Richmond and Madison boys rested on their oars last week and put no ballots in the can, so Garrard's number placed Miss Bradley in the lead. As has been stated, there are two hundred members of the Richmond lodge, only ten or fifteen residing here. The following, from the Richmond Register, shows the Lancaster entry has to battle against the field, a thing we did not anticipate when we placed Miss Bradley in nomination. The report of the committee says in part: "The Lancaster boys seem to have their minds made up to make the Madison boys know that they have been in the race, and unless Richmond gets a move on herself you had just as well prepare to take off your hats to the Garrard county Queen." So you see the situation. Instead of each fellow fighting for his girl, it seems that it is "Richmond against Lancaster." While we deeply regret the turn in the matter, yet it is indeed a great consolation to know that the name sent in by the editor of this paper was so popular as to cause the backers of sixteen others to huddle together in order to defeat her. We have a number of tickets yet, and if you want to help swell the vote for our entry, call at this office. Votes are five cents each.

Mr. Curry III.

We regret to note the continued illness of our good friend, Mr. Theodore Curry. He is suffering from kidney trouble, and most of the time is confined to his bed. Many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

Its Strange Indeed.

Newspaper men are annoyed almost every day by communications being sent to them, the sender having failed to sign his name. This has been explained time and again, but people persist in doing it. The name is not wanted for publication but to show that the items are reliable.

IN MEMORIAM.

On the 10th of June, the Father of us all called to her eternal reward our beloved sister and co-laborer, Mrs. Margaret Gill. In the death of Mrs. Gill this Society has lost one of its charter members. For twenty odd years she has been a faithful, patient, consistent and earnest worker for Christ and his church. She was always more than willing to do her part no matter what that might be. Those who have worked with her can never forget her cheerfulness; she was one who could sympathize and comfort others in sorrow or trouble, and never speak of her own. The church has lost a faithful, Godly member, the Sunday school its organizer and a teacher who taught both by experience and precept, the society a wise counselor and officer. She hath ceased from her labors and her works do follow after. Our hearts go out in tenderest love and sympathy to her bereaved ones.

Mite Society Presbyterian church, Mrs. Lewis L. Walker, Miss Jane L. Duncan, Committee.

Handsome Quarters.

The repeated statement in THE RECORD that a first-class photographer could do well in Lancaster has had the effect of bringing to our town one of the best artists in the State, Mr. E. H. Fox, of Danville. Some trouble was experienced in securing a suitable place, but Mr. J. M. Logan agreed to remodel the rooms over Swinford's barber shop, and this was done in the best possible manner. The entire north end of the building has been made into a skylight, the partitions removed, the entire place neatly painted and papered, making one of the prettiest and most complete galleries in the state. A dressing room has been cut off for ladies, which is completely furnished with dresser, mirrors, etc., so ladies may bring their dresses and prepare for the pictures there. Mr. Fox has the same improvements here that he uses in his Danville gallery, and can do the same perfect work. He will be in Lancaster every Tuesday and Friday, and as a 'phone has been put in, you had best call him up and make an appointment. The gallery is elegantly furnished and he would be pleased to have you call.

FIERCE WORK OF WIND.

A Severe Windstorm Sweeps Through County, Demolishing Everything in Its Path.

Last Wednesday night, just as we had run off the last copy of THE RECORD the most disastrous cyclone that has ever visited Kentucky passed over a portion of the county, just south of town. The wind was blowing a perfect gale in town, and when reports of the destruction began to come in, there was much excitement. Not until late the next afternoon were all the particulars in, and even then there was much exaggeration as to the number killed and crippled. It is absolutely impossible to place a money value on the loss, as it will take much time and labor to replace the buildings, and some of the losses cannot be covered at all. It is also impossible to form an idea of the fierceness of the storm without seeing wreck. Many have driven over the stricken portions, and all agree that they have never seen or read of so complete destruction. Those left homeless were taken in by kind-hearted neighbors, and contributions have been made for the more needy.

The first of the tornado was observed at Hedgeville, about nine o'clock Wednesday. It leaped to the farm of Will Cook, where many panels of fencing and much timber was destroyed. From there it leaped to Capt. T. A. Elkin's. Here it wrecked the barn, demolished all the shade trees, blew down a lot of fencing and also a lot of timber. The path of the storm was about 250 yards wide, the entire length. From Elkin's it crossed the railroad and went into Jim Dalton's. It blew away his residence, barn, every outbuilding, and all the fencing in the path. A portion of his survey was found in Flat Woods, four miles away. The family had retired, and they were carried some distance with the wreck. Strange to say, no one was injured. Mrs. Daniel's property, the old Salter place, was next struck, unroofing the entire dwelling and completely wrecking the "L." The carriage house was completely carried away and demolished. From this point the storm followed the Crab Orchard pike a distance of about a mile. It struck Booth Sutton's on side of pike, entirely demolishing the dwelling and barn, and sweeping away all outbuildings and fencing. Sutton and his wife were blown for 100 yards or more, and a negro sleeping in an outbuilding was blown across the pike and sustained a broken leg. Neither Mr Sutton or his wife were injured, save a few scratches, but lost everything they had. The storm next struck the 50-foot iron bridge over Gilberts Creek, twisting it like it were small wire, tearing the foundation to pieces. The blacksmith shop near by was entirely demolished, nothing but the anvil being left to mark the spot where it stood.

The next house was a brick residence about 100 yards from the bridge owned by Lucien Perkins, and occupied by a tenant. This was demolished as far down as the first story, taking away the entire second story and wrecking all outbuildings. A strange thing is the frame "L" was left intact. From here the storm jumped to Lucien Perkins residence, the old Stiger place, taking the top off the stone barn on the pike, and entirely uprooting his fine orchard. The storm then took a north-easterly course, striking next the Collier school house, lifting it from its foundation and moving it a distance of five or six feet. It then struck the property of Mrs. Royse, the old Collier place, entirely demolishing the barn, fencing and some outbuildings. The residence was unroofed. At this point, the storm seemed to gather additional force, uprooting large forest trees, in fact taking everything in its path.

A quarter of a mile above the residence of Mrs. Royse, is the residence of Jas. Thompson, formerly the McCarey property. At this point, the wind seemed to be at its greatest fury. His entire residence was demolished, together with all the outbuildings and barns. A singular thing was the uprooting of an apple tree, which was inverted and the limbs stuck into the hole made by the roots, standing on its head, so to speak. Mr. Thompson and wife were occupying the room north of the hallway, his uncle, Mr. Dave Thompson, who had left home on account of the storm, occupying the room on the south. Mr. Thompson's brother and a farm hand occupied a room in the "L." All this portion of the building was entirely torn away, the room occupied by Mr. Dave Thompson being moved ten or fifteen feet from the chimney, the entire end blown away. It is certainly remarkable that no one was injured at this point. The roof over one room fell in, and the occupants were only saved by its alighting on the high posts of the bed. The storm only struck the edge of Sheriff Lawson's property, uprooting the orchard and damaging the sugar grove back of the house. From there it struck the property of Rev. Ira Partin, due east. This property was a two-story frame house, with box "L." The wind removed the entire front of the house in which were Mr. Partin and family, leaving intact the "L" which was not damaged. Mr. Partin and his entire family received serious physical disabilities, his second son, who was upstairs, being blown about 40 or 50 feet, the entire second story falling upon him. He remains in a serious condition, but it is thought he will get well. Mr. Partin, wife and rest of the family were occupying the down stairs part of the house, and when the storm struck them they attempted to escape, but were caught in the fury of the storm, plank, brick and other debris striking and injuring them. Mr. Partin's barn, which was in the direct path of the storm, escaped serious damage, the wind bounding over it after striking the house. It is estimated the wind was blowing at the rate of 100 miles an hour at this point.

When the wind rose at Partin's it passed over the next house in line and swooped down on that of Mr. Duddelar, some half mile away, thence entering the Flat Woods, uprooting and twisting giant oaks and hickories as if they were mere straws. Half a mile further on it struck the cabin occupied by "Aunt" Sarah Duncan, widow of the well-known old negro, Adam Duncan, lifting it entirely from the foundation and scattering it all over that end of the county. She was seriously injured. The next house struck was the old Lawson place, owned by Sheriff Lawson, which was unroofed and otherwise seriously damaged. Fences were swept away and large trees twisted and blown away.

The tornado passed on through the Flat Woods, demolishing quite a number of cabins and missing others, in some places it demolished trees all around cabins, leaving the latter intact. At Steve Walker's it blew away the cabin from foundation and chimney, but didn't hurt the cabin. Trees were uprooted and fencing demolished. At Mr. Ed Walker's residence, a chimney was blown through the roof into the house, doing great damage, but injuring no one, and a cabin was moved from its foundation. Before reaching Walker's it blew away a barn for Mr. Samp Archer, tore away fencing and damaged trees to a great extent.

From Mr. Walker's the storm kept its path due east, striking the Cartersville section, doing great damage to farms and farm property. At Walaceton, further on, it destroyed the residence of James Ponder, killing his father and another man whose name we could not learn, and injuring the entire family more or less. Many other small losses are reported in the wake of the tornado, and it would take ten times the space we have to give a complete description of the wreck.

Of course Garrard county will see a good delegation to Washington the fall to see the G. A. R. veterans hold the last encampment, perhaps, at the National Capital. Washington is going to turn herself loose on this occasion. The little pot will be put into the big one as it was never done before and the visitor will be worn out with novelty and entertainment. The Army and Navy will join in the exercises of the week, the President will be a central figure—and in fact, it will be the greatest encampment of them all. Central Kentucky veterans and visitors will find the old reliable and picturesque C. & O. Railroad, the proper route for the Encampment, as it runs through much of the country historic and rich in memories of the Civil War.

Mrs. Renner and children, of Camp Nelson, visited her sister, Mrs. Vantrees, Tuesday. An infant of Mr. Oscar Montgomery died Monday and was buried at Mt. Hebron church. Mrs. Swopes little girl who has been quite sick is much better. Misses Curtis and Vean, two pretty girls of Nicholasville, have returned home after spending a pleasant week with Miss Nell Bourne.

No False Claims.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a "sure cure for consumption." They do not claim to it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases, but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. In Foley's Honey and Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. C. C. and J. E. Stormes. 1m

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky July 3 1902.

His many newspaper friends regret that Mr. Henry Woolfolk has, on account of ill health, been forced to retire from the active control of the Danville Advocate. While he is still interested in the paper, yet its management will be shared in by other gentlemen, mention of which is made elsewhere. No man is more highly esteemed and beloved by the press boys than is Mr. Woolfolk. Possessed of a warm heart and kindly disposition, he has made life-long friends of all the newspaper men, and their united prayer is that he will soon be restored to perfect health and strength.

The war claim to be paid Kentucky will pay off every dollar she owes, and leave a handsome wad in her jeans. With nothing owing, there can be absolutely no objection to removing the seat of government to Lexington, where it properly belongs, and erecting decent state buildings. Everybody wants it moved there, save a few Frankfort people, and why it is not done is hard to understand. Next time this thing is turned down, there is likely to be a cry of nigger in the legislative woodpile.

That good paper, the Danville Advocate, has changed hands, Messrs. Owen McIntyre and Craig Ralston taking charge. The Advocate is one of the most conservative and reliable papers published in Kentucky, its clever editor, Mr. Henry Woolfolk, proving a hand and a half with the quill. We wish the young men unbounded success.

So the coronation was postponed by the "serious and dangerous illness" of Edward. "Serious and dangerous" sounds pretty big, but down in this neck of the woods when a fellow fills his tank with booze until his copper burns out, they call it plain jim jams. That "serious illness" reminds us very much of Grover Cleveland's "kout."

The Lexington papers are certainly hard up for something to fuss about when they have to dig up the old chestnut of "largest circulation." Find something interesting to quarrel over, brethren. An editor may swear to his circulation on a stack of bibles as high as Pikes Peak, and most readers think it a lie.

The Danville Advocate says a woman appeared before the court to ask freedom for her husband, and brought with her eight children, "nearly all the same size." The Advocate don't say, but its dollars to doughnuts the judge didn't release hubby, dear.

SINCE England's high-muck-a-muck has been stricken by that unpronounceable disease, we have read of several plugheads here in America suffering from the same affliction. There is nothing more disgusting than to see some idiot trying to ape another idiot.

SOME of the papers head the Kentucky Press Association's annual outing "A Water Trip." As it is the desire to have a large attendance this year, we trust this impression will not get abroad. A "water" trip is calculated to frighten off most of the boys.

IN his testimony before the Senate Committee, Admiral Dewey said he took no stock in Aguinaldo, and called him a plain, every day thief. The old sea-hoss again shows his good marksmanship.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

"Harrigee" Writes Entertainingly About Former Garrard People.

Washington, D. C., July 1, 1902.

My Dear Landram:—The readers of your great modern family journal might be interested in knowing something about the Garrard county boys who are helping to run the government up here. They are a pretty decent set, all things considered, and the folks at home need not fear of having to send them checks to get their overcoats out of soak next fall.

One of the oldest Garrard men in the government service is R. R. West, who came here as a clerk during Cleveland's first administration I believe it was, and who has succeeded in holding on up to this time, with splendid prospects of a steady job. West is employed in one of the auditing divisions of the big Treasury Building, being a chief of his division, and is looked upon as one of the sleuths of the accounting department. He has been sent all over the United States on important work and the other day when one of the disbursing officers of the government went wrong West was detailed to go through the books and ascertain the amount of the stealage. Mr. West has a splendid Kentucky woman for his wife and an interesting family, one of his boys being big enough to go to Kentucky to College this fall, perhaps to Danville.

Another West in the service here is Millard, late of Lancaster, who was a deputy collector under Mr. Yerkes and transferred by the present Commissioner to the Internal Revenue Bureau here. Millard is looked upon as a model young man. He is morally as straight as a pine shingle and in the office is noted for his close attention to business, as well as for his efficiency. If he stays in the service his promotion to the top round is assured. Of course Millard is fond of the ladies and is a prize beau. If you could see him coming down Massachusetts Avenue some Sunday morning with an expression of, "If mother could only see me now!" on his innocent countenance you would feel that you had gotten the worth of the cost of your trip to Washington. There are two things I always show visiting friends—Millard on Sunday and the Congressional Library. Both are equally impressive.

And then there is another Garrardite here—O. C. Pearce. Pearce, I believe has been away from the old county for some years. He drifted south and while in Atlanta became associated with some officials of the War Department, made a mash on them and was nudged to come to Washington and take a position in the War Department. He now holds an important position in the office of the Adjutant General of the Army. Mr. Pearce is one of the finest penmen in the service, an expert accountant and a handy man generally. He has also displayed good taste in the selection of a wife, marrying the daughter of one of his superior officers. They have a beautifully furnished home on Thirteenth street and live almost as comfortably as they would in old Garrard. A fine boy recently came to their house, since when O. C. hasn't had a great deal of common sense, but he is gradually getting back to normal.

Speed Smith doesn't come from Garrard, but he hails from the adjoining county of Madison. Garrard Masons who know Speed will be interested in knowing that for the past year he has been Master of Washington Centennial Lodge, one of the oldest Masonic Lodges in the District. During the year Speed received fifty new members, the largest number ever raised in any one year in the history of lodge. Speed is not an old man, and wants to be honored as younger than he really is, for he is still cutting around, but he is one of the brightest and most enthusiastic Masons in the city, which is saying a great deal when

A Studebaker Farm Wagon

WORTH $67.50

GIVEN FREE

Most Popular Farmer in Garrard County

Beginning July 1st, with every $1.00 paid for merchandise at my store, I will give a ballot on which to vote what Farmer shall receive this wagon. The ballots will be deposited in a locked ballot box; this box will be opened once each week and the votes counted by a special committee of well known men. The vote will be published in this space each week, so that you can know your candidate's chances. The vote will close Dec. 24, 1902. The wagon will be presented Xmas day to the Farmer having most votes. For particulars see Cynthia Democrat—Mrs. and Mrs. T. A. Robertson left yesterday morning for Nicholasville, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Dan Hemphill. They will also visit friends at Lancaster, Paint Lick and other points before returning.

Frank Humphrey, who has cases on Somerset Journal, was here on a visit to his parents. He likes Somerset very much, and genial Seph Campbell very much better. Judging from that far away look, Frank has a girl in our sister city who occupies much of his thoughts.

Saturday's Courier-Journal contained pictures of Miss Florence Sinclair Elliott, of Mayfield, and John Alexander Herr, of Pittsburg, Pa., who were married June 24th. Miss Elliott will be remembered as the youngest daughter of Prof. Elliott who taught here several years ago.

Last week a sheet of copy blew off the book and was misplaced. Among the items was a personal about the visit to our city of Mr. Clyde Hart, the gentlemanly business manager of the Richmond Register. Mr. Hart is one of the best newspaper men in Kentucky, and with Mr. T. Hood Little, is making the Register a paper that cannot be excelled. Mr. Hart is also a practical printer, and one of the best to be found. His visit to THE RECORD office was much enjoyed by the whole force, from editor to devil.

Courier-Journal—William S. Elkin, Jr., of Atlanta, passed through Louisville en route to Grayson Springs to attend the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association, which is in session there. Mr. Elkin was last year president of the Georgia Pharmaceutical Association. He is one of the many Kentuckians who have been successful in Atlanta, having gone there fifteen years ago to accept a position as drug clerk. By close attention to business he was able to launch the company of which he is now the head and which is one of the biggest drug concerns in the South. Mr. Elkin was born and reared in Lancaster. He is the son of Capt. Thomas A. Elkin. He will attend the convention at Grayson Springs as representative of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, printed at Atlanta.

A competitive examination for students who desire to enter State College will be held at County Superintendents office July 17, 1902. The subjects embraced in said examination are Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography and United States History. All persons are eligible between the ages of fourteen and twenty-four who have completed the Common School Course.

Kentucky's Greatest Fair.

Beginning at sun-up Monday July 14 and closing at the heavenly hour of midnight, Saturday, July 19 the Richmond Ky., Lodge of Elks will attempt to break all records at their Fair. The forty acres of woodland, the magnificent campus of old Central University, in the suburbs of Richmond, will be the location. A splendid race track, amphitheatre and band stand have been constructed. The mammoth gymnasium will be used as Floral Hall for the Ladies Department. Dressing rooms for ladies in Dormitory. Commanding views from the College buildings.

The Midway will be the finest and cleanest ever exhibited in Ky. Some special features are: Fraternal Day, Ladies Day, Governor's Day, Floral Parade, Crowning of a Queen, Lexington Day, Louisville Elk Day.

A $700 Olds Automobile will be raffled July 19. Premiums for all kinds of stock, farm produce, and domestic ware. Large trotting and pacing purses and stakes, handsome premiums on saddle and harness horses, etc. And many novelties that will make this a memorable exhibition. It is not a Street Fair in any sense. Admission 25 cents to all.

MANSE.

Quite a cyclone swept through this vicinity last week, houses, barns and crops were destroyed and several people killed on White Lick.

There was Children's Day at New Hope church last Sunday, the exercises were interesting.

There will be services at Fairview church next Sunday by the regular pastor, Children's Day exercises have been postponed.

Miss Viola Preston, of Louisville, is the charming guest of Miss Mayme Ramsey. Mrs. Watkins, of Virginia, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Terrill Ramsey, of this place. Mr. J. L. Royston, who has been engaged in business in St. Louis, Mo., for twenty years, is expected to visit his sister, Mrs. John Doty this week. Miss Jennie Higgins visited in lower Garrard this week. Misses Rachael and Edie Kennedy, of Richmond, have been visiting Mrs. Jesse Dunn. Mr. J. N. Turley, of Madison county, has been visiting friends in this vicinity.

Rheumatism, caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils no nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieve temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system must be purified. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids, and sends
